FAUSTO COPPI

World War II opened fire in 1939. It was said the Italians did not take much notice. The Giro d'Italia had been waged and won by the unknown Legnano support rider, Fausto Coppi. Time-honored custom dictated he race for captain Gino Bartali's glory, but Coppi's passion for cycling, to win for the team, for Italy, spurred him 45 minutes ahead of the injured Bartali, leaving the tifosi speechless (you ever try to silence an excited crowd of Italians?), and inflaming a rivalry between captain and maverick team rider.

Interrupted by the five-year war, the two butted headsets again as devastated post-war Italy found new national pride through Coppi's victories. Edoardo Bianchi liked what he saw. His own innovative zeal raced far ahead of other bicycle manufacturers, spinning the small ring of outdated technology. And now there was an innovative racer who could push his Bianchis, current racing techniques, and the tifosi's expectations to new limits. A decade long match made in heaven that spelled hell for their rivals.

Timekeepers forgot their second hands. Coppi was winning by minutes, shocking other racers with solo breakaways lasting over 100 km. The peloton was forced to forget their old pace. Coppi hammered up passes hacked out of the Dolomites at speeds others reserved only for descents. Fausto knew days in advance when he would attack, strategy unpracticed in those days.

Time and years of grippe softened rival Bartali enough to speak the truth, "On a bike Fausto was like a God. When he got off he was mortal. But when he pedaled, he was supernatural." We couldn't have said it better. So we'll fade and roll credits: Twice Tour de France and World Pursuit champion. 1949-1952 Paris-Roubaix winner. Five-time Italian Pursuit, Giro d'Italia and Tour of Lombardy winner. World Hour Unpaced record holder. Go Fausto.

The Super GY's frame is the same as the GL except we spec'd a Bianchi custom-valved Rock Shox Super Deluxe rear shock for 3.5" rear end heaven. The front is smoothed out by the 3.25" travel, world championship Rock Shox Judy DH. A home wrecking collection of divorce court components grace the GY: The crew at White Industries milled us an heirloom quality lightweight version of their front suspension hub. Shimano XT shifters and V-brakes bring the world out of hyperspace with powerful, ABS-like stopping. An added bonus of a White Industries forged crank kicks the drivetrain into action with unquestionable authority. We always get busted for blowing off work when we ride this bike because our return grin is ear-to-ear GY.
